PIL commemorates International Day for Women in

Maritime around the world

21 May 2024

As the world marks the IMO International Day for Women in Maritime on 18 May, our teams across the globe also celebrated this meaningful event to convey PIL's recognition and respect for our female colleagues!

At Head Office in Singapore, the team organised a "Ladies' Night Happy Hour" on Friday, 17 May for our female colleagues to end their work week with an evening of sweet treats and drinks. Over at PIL China's headquarters in Shanghai, the team also planned a celebratory event on the same day which PIL CEO Lars Kastrup attended as well.

Speaking at the event in Shanghai which was livestreamed to Singapore, Lars expressed his appreciation and gratitude to all our female colleagues for their valuable contributions to the company and the wider maritime sector. He also reiterated PIL's "People-Centric" stance on gender equality, and stressed that the company will continue its efforts in creating an inclusive and safe work environment that embraces diversity.

Elsewhere around the world, our local offices also paid tribute to their female team members in their own ways on this special occasion. Check out the photos below to immerse yourself in the celebrations! [!\[\]\(4f6bf54ae7e4144a72d78316053e412d_img.jpg\)](#)

With people at the heart of our family, PIL firmly believes in equal opportunities and recognises achievements regardless of gender. We are proud to see how our female colleagues have thrived in the inclusive work environment that PIL has offered, and are even "Pushing Boundaries" to break down gender barriers in this traditionally male-dominant industry!

To all our female counterparts, continue to be brave and bold, and never stop challenging the status quo! Your diligence, dedication, and determination have been paramount to PIL's success, and we look forward to continue "Driving Connectivity" for the world together with you!
