PIL Celebrates with Eldorado Brasil on the Inauguration of Logistics Terminal EBlog at Santos, Brazil

PIL is happy to celebrate with Eldorado Brasil Celulose S/A on their inauguration of EBlog, a multimodal logistics terminal at the Port of Santos, Brazil, with a PIL container specially decorated for this milestone event!

Created by Brazilian artist Igor Grellet, the container design draws inspiration from Eldorado Brasil's business in forestry-based pulp production and the iconic Supertrees from Singapore's Gardens by the Bay. The design also illustrates the dedication and hard work of Eldorado Brasil and PIL in their operations, represented by a container vessel crossing the seas from day to night.

A valued customer of PIL, Eldorado Brasil is a sustainable forestry-based pulp production company and EBlog is one of the largest multimodal port terminals in Latin America. Located at the largest port in Latin America, Port of Santos, EBlog is a mega terminal with an area of 53,000 square meters capable of storing up to 150,000 tonnes of pulp.
